NEW LAND AND BETTER TRAILS

Metro Parks is thrilled to announce a new addition to Jefferson Memorial Forest. Metro Parks has purchased a 27-acre property behind the existing Welcome Center. This property, known as the Lamont Tract, will connect the Paul Yost Recreation Area, the Horine Reservation and the Tom Wallace Recreation Area via a new hiking trail that begins at the Welcome Center. This strategic development allows the Welcome Center to become the true starting point for exploration in the Forest. This new trail also supports future improvements as called for in our Master Plan.

The Forest would like to thank Kentucky Trail Association members, Consuming Louisville readers, and all the others who took the time to vote in last year's Save the Trails contest, sponsored nationally by the American Hiking Society and Nature Valley Granola Bars. As a result of your efforts, the Forest's trail project was selected and received $5,000 to purchase supplies for trail construction, and support trail-related volunteer activities in the Forest.

We kicked-off this project on June 6, 2009, in honor of National Trails Day. Since then we have designated the second Saturday of each month as the volunteer trail crew project day to build this new trail. We invite you to consider joining our trail crew to help us complete the project in time for a ribbon cutting ceremony to celebrate this year's National Trails Day, on Saturday, June 5, 2010.

This project is one of the many exciting trail developments in store for the Forest and other Metro Parks natural areas. It is our goal that our hiking, equestrian, and mountain bike trail systems will become the finest and best-maintained trails in the region. With your help, we can achieve this goal. If you want to be a part of our volunteer trail team, please check our website for information on how you can contribute, or call Sherry Wright, our volunteer coordinator, at 380-1753.

LAND MANAGEMENT NOTES

BUSH HONEYSUCKLE

Probably the most researched and studied of all the exotic invasive plants are the honeysuckles of the genus Lonicera. Bush Honeysuckle is no doubt one of the most troublesome. Honeysuckles belong to the family Caprifoliaceae. There are four species of the shrub form and one vine type that are of most concern in Kentucky. The most common of the bush honeysuckles in this area is the Amur Honeysuckle, Lonicera maackii.

Preferring full sun, they tend to favor forest edges, disturbed areas, old agricultural fields, abandoned railroad right of ways and roadside edges. Honeysuckles are extremely adaptable to many different climates and soils, especially calcareous soils. Their vigorous growth can in part be attributed to the lack of natural biological controls such as herbivores, insects and diseases. Eventually they will spread throughout the forest, completely dominating the lower canopy. One study indicated that the rate of spread can be as much as a half-mile per year. The thick, often impenetrable, cover shades out native species and inhibits forest regeneration. Fortunately, the seeds have low embryo viability and last as little as two years in the seed bank. There has been some evidence of allelopathy which curbs seed germination and seedling growth to some species. In addition, the extensive shallow root system out-competes native flora for nutrients and soil moisture.

Not only does honeysuckle reduce forest diversity, but the native plant community has been diminished, causing loss of native habitat and food sources for the forest creatures. The early leaf out and late leaf drop extend the photosynthetic period, contributing to its own growth and decreasing available light to the native plant community. Studies have shown that this extended foliage time has birds nesting earlier and staying later. Birds also tend to nest lower in the arching branches which leaves them vulnerable to forest predators.

Google "bush honeysuckle" and one can find more information than one needs to know.

At the forest, Bush Honeysuckle can be found nearly everywhere. While the heaviest concentrations are at the most active areas of the forest, one can sporadically find individual plants in the most remote areas. Birds and small mammals, particularly deer mice, devour the fruits and disperse the seed over a wide area. Humans too are responsible for its spread at the forest as there have been brush piles left along forest roads. Our efforts to remove it are being focused on the area near the Welcome Center, Tom Wallace Park and the Horine Conference Center.

The best control procedure is the cut stump method, by cutting the stems close to the ground and painting the stump with an approved herbicide. Removing bush honeysuckle from your property and encouraging others to do likewise will certainly lessen the impact on the environment.

NATURAL AREAS NEWS

On June 5, Jefferson Memorial Forest will host a National Trails Day Celebration to open and dedicate the first stage of what has become known as the "Nature Valley Project." We broke ground on this project during National Trails Day 2009. This year, we will be putting the finishing touches on the first section of new trail behind the Welcome Center which will eventually connect three major sections of the Forest – Tom Wallace Recreation Area, Paul Yost Recreation Area, and the Horine Reservation.

We are anticipating being at a significant stage of the trail project on June 5, connecting the Tom Wallace Recreation Area at the Welcome Center to the Horine Reservation via the Mitchell Hill Lake trail! Local dignitaries will be present for the grand opening celebration. The final stage of this project, estimated to be complete in the later part of 2010, will connect this trail to the Paul Yost section and will result in all 35-plus miles of hiking trail being accessible from the Welcome Center. The National Trails Day Celebration begins at 9 a.m. at the Welcome Center.

National Trails Day is sponsored and promoted by the American Hiking Society, and each year thousands of volunteers take part in hundreds of trail projects throughout the United States. We have dedicated the second Saturday of each month throughout 2010 as a volunteer trail day to work specifically on this project, so you can also join us on those days. Typical volunteer activities on the trail including clearing vegetation from the trail corridor, and finish work on the tread, back-slope and out-slope.

Please call 380-1753 if you are interested in participating on any work day. Work days for this project start at 9 a.m. at the Welcome Center on the second Saturday of each month. Hope you can join us!

NEW LOGO FOR METRO PARKS NATURAL AREAS DIVISION

In order to improve Metro Parks' ability to deal with pressing land management issues such as invasive plants, erosion related to improper trail design; promotion of the many outdoor recreational opportunities around our community's natural spaces and connecting children and the community to nature, Metro Parks created the Natural Areas Division in 2004. With this issue, we introduce the new logo for the Natural Areas Division which identifies those properties managed by Jefferson Memorial Forest staff. The new logo will allow those seeking outdoor recreational and educational opportunities within this system of properties to easily find information through the Jefferson Memorial Forest and Metro Parks websites. Please visit www.memorialforest.com in the coming months to see the changes and to find out more information on the Natural Areas Division of Metro Parks.

ENDANGERED PLANT FOUND AT JEFFERSON MEMORIAL FOREST

The Kentucky State Nature Preserves Commission has confirmed the presence of the first State-listed endangered plant known to occur within Jefferson Memorial Forest. Their staff confirmed the presence of narrow-leaved blue curls (Trichosetema setaceum). It is an annual herb preferring dry upland woods in an oak-hickory association. As of April 2006, excluding historical observations, there have been only three known observations in the state. This discovery, 60 years into the Forest's formal existence as a nature preserve, points to the need for a detailed inventory of the flora and fauna of Jefferson Memorial Forest so that we can determine if important populations of this and other rare or uncommon species exist within the Forest.

SETTLEMENT ACHIEVED IN ILLEGAL LOGGING CASE AFFECTING THE FOREST

Metro Government recently settled a lawsuit with a resident along Sawmill Road, who trespassed onto Jefferson Memorial Forest property and illegally removed a significant amount of timber. As part of the settlement, Metro Louisville acquired title to a 22-acre forested track owned by the individual and adjacent to the area in question, as well as $5,000 to offset Metro Government's payments to a consulting forester necessary to settle the case. This incident highlights the need to have the boundary of the Forest surveyed and marked to deter future encroachment. This also allows Metro Parks to determine the existence of other possible encroachments along the Forest's extensive boundary and to take appropriate action. Landowners adjacent to the Forest are encouraged to familiarize themselves with Kentucky laws regarding timber trespass. These are available on the Kentucky Division of Forestry's website at www.forestry.ky.gov.

GO FISH - WITH YOUR KIDS

JMF has partnered with Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to introduce families to fishing.

You may now check out a fishing pole (hook, line and sinker included) for free, courtesy of Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. Your only cost is bait, which is sold at the Welcome Center. This is a great way for parents interested in introducing their children to fishing, but without the immediate need to spend significant money on fishing supplies.

Children under 12 do not require a fishing license and parents do not either, provided they only help the child with fishing! On selected Saturdays from April to July, volunteer naturalists will be on hand to provide basic fishing instruction.

HISTORIC "GULLY OF THE DRUMS" SITE TO BE CLEANED UP

The Kentucky Division of Waste Management is in the process of initiating removal of a small historic dump site located near the far eastern corner of the Forest, on land incorporated into the park via a donation in 1988. The site, just within the Forest's boundary, is near the infamous A.L. Taylor site (a.k.a. the "Valley of the Drums"). This site was located on private property and used as a refuse dump, drum recycling center, and chemical dump site from 1967 to 1977. The A.L. Taylor site, for those who may not be aware, was one of the main sites (along with others such as Love Canal) that ultimately resulted in the EPA's Superfund Program. Because of the pollution caused on these sites, the government strengthened regulations regarding the disposal of hazardous waste. In 1988, following extensive remediation, the EPA removed the A.L. Taylor site from the Superfund list.

The smaller "Gully of the Drums" site located on Forest property was characterized some years ago by the EPA as one not requiring further remediation. However, subsequent monitoring and soil sampling by the Kentucky Division of Waste Management indicated that further remedial action was necessary. While this site is not close to any existing or

VOLUNTEER NEWS

VOLUNTEER APPRECIATION EVENT

In 2009, those serving in our ongoing volunteer programs provided over 3,800 service hours in 2009. Using the national average value of a volunteer hour, their donated hours are valued at over $77,000! Now that's worth bragging about! And brag we did, on Thursday, February 18, 2010, when the Forest held a Volunteer Appreciation Dinner at Riverside/Farnsley-Moremen Landing.

District 13 Councilwoman Vicki Welch sponsored the meal and served as the key speaker. She began the evening with a thank you to all our volunteers and personally delivered a proclamation of thanks to each volunteer.

Bennett Knox, Park Administrator, unveiled the new Natural Areas logo at the dinner, explaining how it will assist us to better highlight the Natural Areas region for the public and identify its volunteers. Jefferson Memorial Forest serves as the flagship park and staff headquarters for the Metro Parks Natural Areas Division, which encompasses several additional smaller parks. The Natural Areas logo was developed to be used in conjunction with the Jefferson Memorial Forest logo. You'll see the two logos on our website, signage and documents, as well as on some spiffy new hats being sported by some of your friends! (Hint: Logo ball caps are available in the Welcome Center Gift Shop!)

An added surprise for the evening was the introduction of the new Volunteer Handbook and Volunteer Benefit Package. The volunteers were pleased to learn the benefit package was effective as of January 2009, and 18 volunteers received awards Thursday evening based on the new package.

A good time was had by all, and we hope to repeat the event next year with even more volunteers present and more awards to honor how wonderful they are!

We extend our gratitude to Vicki Welch for her ongoing support and dedication to the Forest and to Patti Linn at Riverside, for graciously allowing us to use that beautiful facility.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Jefferson Memorial Forest serves as the flagship park and staff headquarters for Metro Parks Natural Areas Division, which oversees more than 7,000 acres of public land set aside specifically for the preservation and conservation of natural habitat. Of that, over 6,200 acres are in Jefferson Memorial Forest. Other areas include Kulmer Beach Reserve, Fairmount Falls, Caperton Swamp, the Beargrass Creek Greenway and Waverly Park.

Natural Areas volunteers assist with trail development and maintenance, help with conservation and preservation efforts, report on trail conditions, remove litter and assist in teaching public programs. Some individuals or groups offer their services for single-day projects, while others complete applications to become part of our core ongoing volunteer base, described below.

NATURAL AREAS VOLUNTEER GROUPS

Land Stewards are botanists-in-action, aiding with the removal of toxic plants, replanting and restoration, locating and mapping native flora, and other conservation/preservation pursuits. Project days are generally the 2nd Saturday, 2nd Wednesday and 4th Thursday of each month. Meet at the Welcome Center at 9:00 am. Come out and learn more about plants while helping maintain the Forest ecosystem.

Trail Team members develop new trails, maintain existing trails, offer public assistance, and provide reporting on conditions and usage patterns. Monthly project days begin at 9:00 am on the second, third and fourth Saturdays of each month. Location changes each project day; call for meeting location on the day you plan to attend. Join this group to learn more about trail development and layout and to assist staff in meeting Forest goals for providing quality recreational opportunities to the community.

Forest Ambassadors are on-call volunteers, providing assistance with varied tasks such as staffing booths or directing parking during special events, helping with crafts during summer camps, or delivering flyers and advertising materials.

Volunteer Naturalists assist staff and/or lead field trips and public programs, providing environmental education to visitors. The 15-week training course for Volunteer Naturalists begins each January.

MANY THANKS!

Jordan Butts, Boy Scout Troop 207, completed his Eagle Scout project at Jefferson Memorial Forest by mulching the Preschool Discovery area and building two discovery tables. Jordan's project took over 36 hours to complete. He mulched and secured the discovery tables on October 6, 2009. Thanks, Jordan!

FOREST FEST

What do crafters, snakes, turtles, barbeque and bluegrass music have in common? Forest Fest! Where else can you go on a scavenger hunt, buy exquisite crafts from local crafts people, learn about snakes, meet a turtle up close, and kick back and relax while listening to the award-winning bluegrass music of Daley & Vincent? And, may we add, all for only a $5 parking fee. This year's Forest Fest promises that and so much more. This is why it has quickly become one of the best bluegrass festivals in Louisville and the region.

Besides our headliners Daley and Vincent, we have Jeri Katherine Howell, who at age 15 is quickly becoming a force in the music world. After performing at Forest Fest, Jeri will be the opening act for Sam Bush's summer tour. We have the traditional sound put with the original music of Blue River. And last, but certainly not least, Earl Bull and his Clinch Valley Boys will teach us all a course in old style bluegrass. These guys bring it like they did in the old days, and boy is it beautiful!

Of course, we will have all of our crafters and Kentucky Proud vendors, as well as lots of fun family activities and a variety of great food. From Fairdale's own Shack in the Back Barbeque to Ehrler's yummy cold treats, we have you covered. So bring a blanket or pull up a hay bale on Saturday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. to enjoy the best bluegrass fest around! ## ESSENTIALS OF RIVER CANOEING

The Louisville region offers several areas for canoe paddling, such as Floyds Fork, Harrods Creek, Salt River, Fourteenmile [note: this is the correct spelling – JC] Creek, and the Ohio River. On Saturday, April 24, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Jefferson Memorial Forest will offer Essentials of River Canoeing – an invaluable American Canoe Association class for anyone who enjoys paddling on moving water.

While many paddlers are content to simply go with the flow, a whole other world of fun opens up when one learns how to perform maneuvers such as ferrying from one side of a river to another, or pausing their trip by catching the calm pools known as eddies. The class will also teach an array of useful paddling strokes: the draw, pry, sweep, cross bow draw, and J-stroke.

The fundamentals of safe paddling will be covered as well. How do you properly use a throw bag, where are strainers most likely to form in a meandering creek, what different hazards are present if you capsize in moving water versus flat water?

Register early by calling the Welcome Center at 502/368-5404. The class is limited to 12 people, with a one-to-six instructor to participant ratio, so this is a great hands-on learning opportunity.

CHILDREN IN NATURE

Spring is here! Thank goodness, after all that snow and cold weather. Flowers are in bloom and the songs of birds, insects and amphibians fill the air. This is a great time to get outdoors and investigate the natural world.

If you need help with ideas for your children, stop by the Jefferson Memorial Forest's Welcome Center and check out one of our forest eco-adventure kits for families. These kits can be rented for $5 and include various investigation tools such as a magnifying glass, binoculars, various thermometers, a clipboard, and ID books to engage your children in brief outdoor activities - the book is yours to keep. You can also sign up for one of our many public programs geared towards children. We are offering two public programs on the weekends which help families get outdoors. Nature Explore Family Club is geared towards three to five year olds which includes the use of our new preschool play area, soon to be a certified Nature Explore Classroom. This program is offered at the Forest as well as the Louisville Nature Center. We also offer the Forest Family Explorers Program geared towards families with children ages three and up.

If you like spending time outdoors at your home or a nearby park, start by using your senses. Smell the new blooming flowers, look for insects that are emerging, listen for birds as they busily work raising their young and touch the bark of different trees. Children naturally love to explore. Just by spending time with them outdoors, your children can lead you into amazing moments of discovery. Bring a bug net, jar, magnifying lens, paper and crayons, camera or video camera, and simple field guides, which we sell at the Welcome Center. Head out with your children to turn over logs, look up into the trees, and explore a field of wildflowers. Go where your discoveries lead you.

VOLUNTEER NEWS

VOLUNTEER OF THE MONTH PROGRAM

September 2009 brought more than just fall color to the Forest. It also brought a competitive air among the volunteers with the announcement of the Volunteer of the Month program. This initiative proved that cool weather doesn't slow down our dedicated public servants! John Buchenberger set the bar high by claiming the prize the first two months, performing 50 hours in September and 72 in October! As the holidays threatened to temper the pace, Dick Dennis took the lead in November with 35 hours. Margie Jones stepped up to command December with 32 hours, and January with 17.5 hours. Each month the volunteer with the most service hours is awarded with a Forest gift certificate and their picture on the Wall of Fame in the Volunteer Corner of the Welcome Center. Stop by and check out who will be featured there next!

VOLUNTEER PROGRAM DONATIONS

Now everyone can show their love of our wooded areas while supporting the Natural Areas volunteer program at the same time! Monetary donations to the Louisville Metro Parks Foundation can be designated for the Natural Areas/JMF volunteer program. Your entire tax-deductible donation will benefit the volunteer program, providing needed funds to purchase supplies, tools, shirts, training and education materials, and awards for our dedicated volunteers. ### VOLUNTEER NATURALIST TRAINING IS UNDERWAY

Two years ago, in January 2008, the Forest began a new program for volunteers, called Volunteer Naturalists. The goal was to provide 15 weeks of extensive training to produce a group of volunteers able to lead public programs and visiting groups, teach classes and interpret at the Forest. We are proud to say that group has done a stellar job and the education staff has been able to expand programming during a time when cutbacks were the norm.

Now, those original Volunteer Naturalists are serving as mentors for a brand new group of eager trainees. The new course began in January and the training is well underway. Watch for these enthusiastic volunteers as they complete their training and begin assisting with programming this spring. You'll know them by their amazing knowledge of the Forest ecosystem and their winning smiles (a volunteer name badge will help, too!).

Volunteer Naturalist trainees learn to build small, safe fires, a skill used to teach survival and Earth Keepers classes.

PUBLIC PROGRAM CALENDAR: APRIL THROUGH JUNE

The Forest offers programs for all ages. For more information visit our website at www.memorialforest.com or call the Welcome Center at 502/368-5404. ## REDUCING OUR IMPACT

Despite our good intentions, we sometimes cause damage to the great outdoors while enjoying activities such as hiking and camping. Leave No Trace is a program to educate outdoor enthusiasts in the skills and ethics needed to reduce their impact on the natural world. In partnership with Green Earth Outdoors, the Forest is offering a Leave No Trace Awareness Workshop June 5-6, from 1 p.m. Saturday to 11 a.m. Sunday.

The seven principles to be covered in this introductory training are:

- Plan ahead and prepare
- Travel and camp on durable surfaces
- Dispose of waste properly
- Leave what you find
- Minimize campfire impacts
- Respect wildlife

- Be considerate of other visitors

By following these principles, we can leave our outdoor places as good as or better than we found them.

At $60 per person, this program includes one night of camping at Jefferson Memorial Forest, as well as food, group equipment, course equipment and handouts, a Leave No Trace patch and sticker, and an Awareness Workshop certificate.
